In Korean payoff scandal

Jaworski, 4 others eyed for probe post

Vol. No. 118 — 186

Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski and at least four others whose work led to the ouster of Richard Nixon from the White House are being considered to head the investigation of the Korean influence-buying scandal in Congress.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill called Jaworski on Tuesday and asked him to take over the chief investigator job in an effort to save the House ethics committee's investigation of the congressional scandal

O'Neill said he had urged someone "with a national reputation" to take the investigator job left vacant last week when Philip A. Lacovara, a former deputy Watergate prosecutor, resigned.

Although O'Neill did not name the person, a source said he was referring to Jaworski, who now is in private law

Jaworski refused to come to the door of his home or answer telephone calls

Tuesday night.
In addition to Jaworski, O'Neill said five others were contacted about the job. Sources said all or most of the five were active in the Watergate investigation.

The five were reported to include former Watergate prosecutors Archibald Cox and Henry Ruth; Sam Dash, who was chief counsel for the Senate Watergate committee, and John Doar, who was chief investigator for the impeachment inquiry against Nixon.

The House ethics committee, which is in charge of the House investigation of the Korean affair, scheduled a meeting today, its first since Lacovara quit because of a stinging attack by the committee chairman, Rep. John J. Flynt, D-Ga.

O'Neill and leaders of the House investigation announced after an hour-long meeting Tuesday that whoever takes the investigator's job will be given a written guarantee that he will have independent power to conduct the probe. The Justice Department also is conducting an investigation into the allegations that the South Korean government used cash and gifts in an effort to win favorable treatment from members of Congress

O'Neill said earlier that if the new investigator has trouble with the committee, he can take his case directly to the speaker's office. In a related development, Republican leaders said they will try to force a House vote on a measure to name a special prosecutor to take over the Justice Department's investigation of the Korean scandal.

President Carter refused to appoint a special prosecutor, saying he feared that would impede the Justice Department investigation.

Repair crews drove a wooden wedge into a 11/2-inch vent fitting on a valve Tuesday evening to plug a leak caused when a truck rammed into a section of the 800-mile line. The Interior Department said that more than 200 barrels — 8,400 gallons — had sprayed from the line and cleanup crews were collecting as much of the spilled fuel as possible

Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. refused to allow reporters to visit the scene 23 miles south of Prudhoe Bay. But from a plane flying over the site, it looked like a black and brown fan had spread over about seven acres of tundra. Some oil had reached two nearby lakes, but it was not possible from the air to judge how serious the pollution was.

Oil in the pipeline started moving again at 2:11 EDT, three hours after the repairs were made. An Interior spokesman said the agency did not "require any special approval" before flow was restarted. Less than 24 hours earlier, the Interior Department had given Alyeska permission to restart the $7.7 billion The oil had reached mile 526 by 2:30 pipeline following a 10-day shutdown. That had been caused by an explosion that destroyed Pump Station No. 8, and

Interior blamed "human error."

The leak was reported at 5:55 p.m. EDT. The truck, a front loader, was helping to bury the valve, which like others along the line was uncovered for the June startup to make it more accessible.

It was the second time in less than a month that a truck had hit a section of the line. The earlier incident involved a section of pipeline with no oil in it.

Edward Patton, Alyeska chief executive officer, said the truck knocked off a small vent on a valve. An Interior spokesman said the line was shut days immediately, but oil already shut down immediately, but oil already in the pipe sprayed out until the pressure was relieved.

An Alyeska spokeswoman said the 48-inch line was not damaged and the damaged valve fitting was replaced five hours after the leak was reported.

Early Tuesday, several hours after the pipeline had restarted, an oil well pumping station at Prudhoe Bay — one of four that feed the pipeline — was closed because of a barrels, some 2,100 gallons.

This did not affect the pipeline flow.

moving at 1.4 miles per hour. The explosion occurred four days after the first shutdown of the line. That occurred on July 4 when workers introduced inadvertently nitrogen into the line, causing cracks in an "L" shaped pipe near Pump 8. This incident shut the line down for 21/2 days and was attributed to human error.

Over 100 local residents have applied

Time running out for persons needing help with fuel bills

Time is running out for Fayette County residents eligible to receive up to $250 to help pay last winter's high fuel bills.

Low-income families and persons over 64 years of age can apply for the benefits to help cover the cost of gas, electricity, coal, propane, or kerosene bills incurred after Oct. 1, 1976.

So far, a number of Fayette County residents have made application for a share of the federal and state funds allocated under the Special Crisis Intervention

Frank Stanley, director of the Fayette County Welfare Department, reported that "business is booming." The welfare offices in each of Ohio's 88 counties are processing applications.

Since the local welfare office began accepting applications last week, Stanley has received over 100. "As of now (Tuesday afternoon) we have 102 applications," Stanley said. "That's about half of the number we can take." Each county was allocated a certain amount of the $13.3 million in funds Ohio received from the federal government under the program. Once Fayette County's share($51,128) is exhausted, local residents who may meet all eligibility requirements will be out of luck and no benefits will be paid. It doesn't matter when an eligible resident makes application for the benefit as long as it is before the

Aug. 12 deadline.

After Aug. 12, all applications will be processed by Stanley's office and applicants will be placed in six priority categories.

County funds will be distributed through the first priority category, then the second and so on until all funds are exhausted.

The elderly whose utilities have been disconnected because of failure to pay are the first priority group.

The elderly whose utility bills are overdue is the second. Then, low income families receive priority in different categories

Stanley said his offices will begin determining eligibility and placing applications in priority categories Aug. 13. His office will have two weeks to complete the assignment. Benefit payments will be made after Aug. 31.

For those eligible residents with delinquent utility accounts, the program will pay up to $250, with payment going directly to the utility company or the fuel supplier. Companies will arrange with customers for deferred payment of the balance of utility bills over the $250 limit. If utilities have been cut off, they are to be reconnected.

For those who have paid their utility bills but are suffering a hardship as a result, the program provides for a direct payment of up to $50. In addition, the difference between the direct payment and the allowable $250 per family may be applied as a credit toward future utility or fuel deliveries. All applicants will need copies of unpaid fuel bills, shutoff notices, income verification or other records that show evidence of financial need. Families must also be under an upper net income limit established by the federal government. A non-farm family of four must have an annual income of less than $7,313 to be

The federal government allocated $200 million for the Special Crisis Intervention Program, and Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes was disappointed with the share

'This is an inadequate amount and it is getting here much too late," Gov. Rhodes said. "We told the federal government that Ohio needed $90 million for this program and we needed it several months ago. But, we only received $13.3 million."

'Shop at Home' campaign slated

The Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce President John Lachat believes that many people ocassionally overlook what the business sector contributes to a community. As a result he chose "Shop at Home" as the theme for his year in the presidency, and a booth at the Fayette County Fair will launch the campaign.

Businesses obviously provide the community with readily accessible goods and services, Lachat noted, but they do much more. They contribute heavily to local governments by paying property, income and sales taxes. They provide jobs for area residents, and they are active in civic affairs.

All too often we take our local businesses and industries for granted,' he cautioned. "The grass always looks greener elsewhere, and residents sometimes pride themselves in the 'deal' they got at a store outside the Fayette County area," he said.
Somehow area residents fail to discover they could have gotten the same item locally at the same price. How the myth that out of town purchsases are "fashionable" got started is open to debate, Lachat said. What is important is that area residents he reminded that buying elsewhere is not only unfashionable but also unwise. Local businesses pay huge amounts of local taxes. These taxes are used to provide essential city and county services like road maintenance, fire and police protection and others. Without local businesses, the tax burden on residents for these same services would be astronomical. Most Fayette County residents rely on a local business fo employment. The more volume done by local firms, the more employes these firms will need. This creates additional job opportunities for all residents, their families and friends. Local businesses and industries also contribute heavily to civic projects which benefit all residents. Just a few of the many programs supported by businesses are Community Education, the Fayette County Life Squad, the Baltimore-Washington International Airport, tying the record for the day. In Maryland, Young D. Hance, the state agriculture secretary, said crops in several parts of the state are showing signs of damage from the Cantaloupe, tomato and cucumber crops as well as pasture land are threatened. Delaware, Virginia, Iowa and Indiana were among the other states reporting problems with crops and livestock. In Baltimore an air pollution alert continued for a fifth day today and some industries were cutting production to reduce pollution. Air pollution alerts also were on in parts of Kentucky, Ohio, Minnesota, New York and Massachusetts. Electric utilities continued to report high levels of consumption with air conditioners turned on in stores, offices, factories and homes. In Minnesota, customers of several utilities were asked to cut back use of appliances. There were scattered power outages in Colorado, Ohio, New York and Massachusetts.

The hot weather caused inner city residents to turn on fire hydrants and in Philadelphia, New York and other Eastern cities, police were trying to get citizens to use hydrant caps that slow the flow of water. A second-stage water alert was declared in New York, meaning that lawn sprinkling and the washing of cars and sidewalks was out.

'Language' bill approved

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) property tax reform, state aid to public schools and welfare benefits hanging in the balance, the House has approved and returned to the Senate a hotlydebated budget "language" bill. Sen. Harry Heshel, D-33 Youngstown, the sponsor, was expected to ask today for a joint conference committed to discuss extensive changes made in his bill before it passed the House 57-38 Tuesday.

Two other major bills also advanced, as the General Assembly rolled toward a July 29 summer adjournment.

A collective bargaining measure, already approved by the Senate, was voted out of a House subcommittee and readied for consideration today by the full Commerce and Labor Committee. A House floor vote is expected next week on the bill granting limited strike rights to nearly 500,000 public employes.

A revived bill, offering 25 per cent discounts to elderly and handicapped Ohioans on winter heating bills, was favorably recommended by the House Finance Committee, clearing the way for floor action. Finance Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, earlier drew the assignment of outlining the complex, budget-related legislation. He said it was intended to "clearly define legislative intent and the purpose and the means to be used in the expenditure of state dollars."

It was also separated from the $13 billion general budget bill by majority Democrats with the intention of forcing Gov. James A. Rhodes' hand. Since the language bill contains no dollar appropriation, Rhodes must either sign it or veto it in its entirety - he cannot use the partial, or line-item veto.

The most controversial section of the legislation attempts to reconcile the year-old property tax relief law with the equal yield basic aid formula, that funnels state dollars to public schools.

In drawing up a compromise, the finance panel inserted no-loss guarantees for some school districts, a device contrary to the intent of the formula which offers equal state aid for equal local tax effort.

At the same time, counties benefiting from a tax credit to offset higher

With takes them below the minimum tax rate to qualify for state school aid.

The bill phases in over a five-year period," Shoemaker said, "tax increases in those school districts which after reappraisal still fall below 20 mills."

The compromise did not satisfy Rep. John E. Johnson, D-68 Orrville, author of the 1976 property tax relief law. Johnson, three other northeastern Ohio Democrats and 34 Republicans voted against the legislation.

"It is my opinion," the Wayne County lawmaker said," that the equal yield and real property tax reduction have been destroyed."

He predicted an erosion in both concepts causing school doors to slam shut, while angry taxpayers marked "no" in tax levy ballots.

Cleveland and other big cities stand to gain from a separate section, calling for an additional $15.3 million for the Disadvantaged Pupil Impact Aid program, educational jargon for more money to areas with a high welfare

Rep. Waldo Bennett Rose, R-64 Lima, called the last minute addition "tribute to the big cities" and said it should have been put in the equal yield formula.

Rose and other Republican representatives also objected to language giving the Controlling Board, Democratic vehicle, authority to increase Aid to Dependent Children benefits when it determines funds are

A GOP amendment to delete the provision failed, as did a "Democratic" amendment to stop the welfare department from implementing a new plan that would drop 28,000 recipients from the rolls. A group of 30,000 others would be added

The amendment lost on a procedural ruling after Rep. Scribner L. Fauver, R-54 Elyria, claimed it as his own, but said Democrats out of "pettiness" had usurped it because they did not want to support any Republican amendment.

Other key provisions of the bill:

—Directs that all state agencies be put on uniform accounting procedures; -Requires all bills to include a fiscal note describing their impact on state or local government finances; and —Established a "Women's Inforproperty valuations, caused by reappraisal, could be forced to gradually raise their taxes, if the credit recent laws affecting their legal status.

"Clean out the bins and get it done in the next three weeks," James Gill, market analyst for the Illinois Farm Bureau, told more than 400 members of National Corn Growers Association. "It is bite the bullet time."

"Time is fleeting," Gill added. "The new crop is coming on fast."

The analyst said farmers also have the option of processing their carryover corn through feeder cattle or pigs. "Or you can carry over to next year, again," he said. "But because of the loss of quality and other factors ... I just don't think it is wise.

There is a 2.35-billion-bushel carry over of feed grains including corn from the huge 1976 harvest, Gill said. was pounding on the piano and tapping

During the stops, Rhodes lashed out at the veto-proof, Democrat-controlled legislature for mandating programs for local governments without providing the funds.

"In a few years, you wait and see, three or four counties are going to be broke," he predicted.

Rhodes also discoursed on the popular topics of erasing welfare rolls and providing "good roads" for southern Ohio.

The final stop was the Jackson County Fair in Wellston where there was more flesh pressing and goodwill.

Money spent locally is invested in local taxes, salaries, schools and civic projects. Money spent out of town is invested in the taxes, salaries, schools and civic projects of other com-munities. "Shopping at home is not only more convenient, but it also makes good sense," Lachat said. "Patronizing local firms is one way of saying 'Thank you' for the business investment in the community," he concluded.

MEMBERSHIP was discussed during the July meeting of the Chamber board of directors. One goal of this year's membership drive is to make Chamber members more readily recognized by the public. With this in mind, the Chamber is distributing door decals to all 1977-78 members.

"We hope that seeing the decals displayed by businesses and industries will provide a constant reminder to residents of the business sector's contribution," Lachat said.

In order to make the decals available to current members as soon as possible, most have been invoiced for membership renewal.

The program of personal contact initiated last month proved to be tremendously successful. However, it would require another month or more to reach all member firms. 'Since we have received numerous calls from members asking when they would be contacted and receive their decals, we decided it would be better to send invoices and give everyone an opportunity to renew immediately," said chamber executive vice president George Malek.

There will still be personal calls on new prospects, some selected current members, and any who do not respond of the invoice, the Chamber executive

Stock market edges upward

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market continued to edge upward in early trading today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed almost a point within the opening minutes although analysts said the market may see some profit-taking later today.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about 3-2 in early trading of New York Stock Exchange listed issues.

The Dow has posted gains of more than 16 points in the past three sessions, helped along by favorable corporate earnings reports and some hopeful economic news from Washington.

Early active issues today included K Mart, up 1/8 to 29; Inexco Oil off 5/8 to 27; and Sambo's Restaurants, up 1/4 to 17. The Dow Jones industrial average gained steadily on Tuesday closing up 8.67 points at 919.27.

Gainers led losers by a margin of almost 9-to-5 on the NYSE. Big Board volume reached 31.93 million shares, against 26.89 million on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index gained .39 to 55.76.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .42 at from the occupied West Bank of the Jordan, offering instead to give the zone's 600,000 Arabs autonomy and tighter links with neighboring Jordan.

The pullbacks from the Golan Heights and the Sinai would be made under conditions providing Israel security against Arab attack. Israeli state television said Begin also was to tell Carter that Israel is ready for indirect peace talks with the Arabs as a second choice to direct Geneva-style negotiations.

Egypt quickly rejected that idea. The semi-official newspaper Al Ahram quoted Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahey as calling that concept

'an Israeli attempt to hinder peace. At Tuesday's state dinner, Carter told guests "there is no way to postpone any longer" the issues requiring a settlement. He said "success this year is going to require a great deal of courage. Begin has said he will attend a peace conference in October if the Arabs agree, but the Israeli tendency apparently is to draw out the actual exchange of land for peace in order to test

Arab intentions. So, in replying to Carter, Begin stressed that while he recognizes the urgent need for a settlement, "there must be some patience."

Begin indicated that he did not see the territorial question as the key to a solution.

Setback to Jupiter probe

For $300 million the United States could undertake an extraordinary scientific adventure in pursuit of knowledge about the nature of the universe. For this sum it could mount a sophisticated attempt to unlock secrets of Jupiter, which in some ways is the most intriguing planet in the solar system.

The outlay would bring another important benefit; it would give new life to the nation's planetary exploration program, now idling along in the doldrums. But unless funding is authorized now to allow the launch of the unmanned Jupiter probe in 1981, the chances of success will be lessened. The reason is that the 1981 launch "window" is the best that will be available in several decades.

Three hundred million is a lot of money, granted — but a comparatively small amount when measured against the billions spent on space ventures in the past. In terms of value received, it would be money well spent.

When the spacecraft arrived in the neighborhood of this vast body, which orbits at an average distance of 480 million miles from the sun compared with Earth's 93 million miles, it would separate into two sections. One would plunge into the Jovian atmosphere and relay back much information before being crushed by the enormous pressures. The other would circle Jupiter for a measurements and photogaphs.

We think it would be eminently worth doing. So does the Senate, which has okayed the project on the strength of consistent approval throughout the committee process.

Unfortunately, it was otherwise in the House, and a joint conference committee has failed to agree on a compromise.
There is still a chance of approval, since the measure now goes back to the House for another vote. Our hope is that this time around the cost — which is far from extravagant when spaced out over several years-will weigh less heavily against a project that would add immensely to knowledge about the largest planet in the solar system.

THESE DAYS....By John Chamberlain

Must we become perfidious America?

If Jimmy Carter has his way in some phases of his foreign policy, a lot of us are going to be thoroughly ashamed of our country before 1980 rolls around. What we see facing us in South Korea, Taiwan, Rhodesia, South Africa and Isreal amounts to large-scale perfidy. In the Far East we seem bent on reversing the policies we accepted as a participant in World War II. In southern Africa, instead of supporting peaceful change, we let Andy Young, our Ambassador to the UN, load the dice in favor of a "one man, one vote, once" future under dictatorial regimes supported by the Soviets. And in Israel our idea of "defensible borders" must, to anybody with a bit of strategic in-sight, seem palpably absurd. I was not one who wished to be part of a guarantee to any status quo in Asia. I remember, with somewhat piquant mixed feelings, sitting on a roof tree in the late 1930s with the young Kingman Brewster, then an undergraduate at Yale, and giving mutual endorsement to the "hemisphere defense" ideas of historian Charles Beard. Pearl Harbor and the development of the intercontinental ballistic missile turned Brewster, later pesident of Yale and now Ambassador to Britain, into an internationalist. And, as a matter of realism, I had to accept my share of the responsibility for the guarantees we gave out allies, old and new, after 1945.

In the Far East we promised a democratized Japan the cover of our nuclear umbrella. We failed the free Chinese on the Asiatic continent, but we offered them a mutual defense treaty once they had established their offshore stronghold on Taiwan. We went to war in the '50s to keep South Korea from falling to Communists. Our honor has become involved in containing both the Russians and the Red Chinese in Asia. Honor, in this case, goes hand in The rent is a bargain: $4,085 a year for the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. And Fidel Castro hasn't even been cashing the checks.

'At today's prices, this may well be the first instance in which the United States is a recipient, rather than a donor of foreign aid," said Rep. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R-Ohio.

The matter came up in the House when Whalen said that for the sake of consistency, Congress should stop paying the rent and the salaries of 149 ubans who work on the base.

Whalen's sardonic reasoning was that the House has twice voted to prohibit aid or trade with Cuba, and case of Guantanamo. His "antihypocrisy amendment of 1977" got nowhere. should follow its own strictures in the GM chairman ponders offer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The chairman of General Motors says he wants more time to evaluate an offer that GM compensate consumers who purchased 1977 Oldsmobile with Chevrolet engines.

GM Chairman T.A. Murphy made his feelings known in a letter received Tuesday by Ohio Atty. Gen. William Brown, who made the proposal Friday on behalf of consumers in 39 states. "It would be imprudent to respond to your offer in detail without first thoroughly reviewing and evaluating your offer in light of the various court rules and procedures and other com-plexities involved," Murphy wrote

Brown, as chairman of the Consumer Protection Association of Attorneys General, proposed two options to owners of the Oldsmobiles and of some Buicks and Pontiacs which also had Chevy engines. About 128,000 cars are

St. Colman Catholic Church is setting for wedding

Conner exchanged marriage vows at 7 p.m. July 1. Father David Petry performed the double-ring ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kimmet, 526 Rawlings St., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Larrick, 3924 U.S. 62-SE, in St. Colman Catholic Church.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Kimmet wore a Chantilly lace wedding gown with fitted empire, scoop neckline with ruffled collar, long fitted tapered sleeves, with layers of lace tiers on the skirt, extending into a chapel length train. Her chapel length silk illusion veil was edged in matching lace and held in place with a profile headpiece. She carried a cascade of white miniature daisies, blue sweetheart roses with baby's breath

On the altar was an arrangement of white gladioli, blue carnations with white bows, seven branch candelabra, and the pews were marked with greenery and matching bows.

Vocalist Mike McDonald sang Sunrise, Sunset, Evergreen, One Hand One Heart preceding the nuptial vows, accompanied by Danny VanDyke at the

The bridesmaids were the bride's two sisters, Diana Hurless and Brenda Hurless, both of Washington C.H. Their gowns were styled with empire waists, sheer handkerchief sleeves, V-shaped neckline trimmed in white lace and an overskirt of light blue and semi-sheer crinkle pleat voile. Each wore a silver teardrop necklace, a gift from the bride. Each carried a colonial bouquet of white and blue daisies and white streamers. In their hair, each wore a white daisy with blue baby's breath. Jeff Estep served as best man for Mr. Conner. Seating the wedding guests were Steve Conner of Xenia, and Brian Larrick of Washington C.H., brothers of the groom. Stevie Conner, nephew of the groom, was the ringbearer, and Beth Ann Kimmet and Allan Ray carried the rings on a white satin heartshaped pillow.

Mrs. Kimmet chose for her daughter's wedding a sleeveless, empire waisted gown of blue knit with short coverlet of polyester printed chiffon. The groom's mother wore a sleeveless light blue knit dress with matching short sleeved jacket with self trim. Both mothers had white accessories and a corsage of pin, rosebuds and white baby's breath.

Hostesses for the reception held at the K of C. Hall were Mrs. Steve Conner of Xenia; Miss Linda Morrison and Miss Sue Stapleton, Mrs. Greg Kimmet presided at the guest book.

The groom's parents entertained for the rehearsal dinner at their home the evening preceding the wedding.

The new Mrs. Conner, is a 1977 graduate of Washington Senior High School. Her husband, a graduate of Miami Trace High School, is employed by Craig's in the sporting goods department

The couple is residing at 638 S. Fayette St., Washington C.H.

Field studies group back from trip to The Bahamas

A Miami Trace High School field studies group returned last week from a 10-day educational visit to Andros Island in The Bahamas.

Ten students and three chaperones had left Fayette County June 30 by van to catch a flight to the island from a Florida airport.

The group of Fayette Countians stayed at the Blanket Sound campsite on the east side of the island where they cooked their own meals and slept in tents, a few feet from the Atlantic Ocean

The students studied the coral life and fish of the island by scuba diving around the island's reef. They also toured the inland section of the island by truck, visiting different towns and This gave the students an opportunity to learn the history and culture of the island's inhabitants.

It was the third trip by a group from the Miami Trace field studies program to the island. Another group sponsored by the Miami Trace field studies program is now touring the southwest section of the United States.

The 10 students participating in the latest trip to Andros Island were from either Miami Trace or Washington Senior high schools. They were Harold Hixon, Wendy Coil, Laureen Coil, Steve Begin, Nancy Marchant, Luke Robinson, Jona St. Clair, Denise Gilbert, Chris Taylor, and Betty

The chaperones were Frank W. Huss and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Pfeifer.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Weather Service predicted scattered thundershowers for Wednesday from the gulf coast into the Appalachians and the Ohio valley. But the heat wave was not expected to be tamed by the storms.

Thundershowers also were predicted for parts of northern Maine and upper Michigan, and from Utah and northern Arizona into the western sections of Nebraska and South Dakota. Sunny weather was expected in the rest of the country

Carey left reporters counting on their fingers when he hinted that his son, Thomas, was a blackout baby.

At a news conference Tuesday, he noted that the looting in last week's New York City power failure was in sharp contrast to a 1965 blackout, 'when the main thing that happened was an increase in the birth rate.

He had earlier said that Thomas celebrated his 11th birthday on Tuesday, and he encouraged reporters to figure it out for themselves Those who did found that the Nov. 9.

1965, blackout occurred a little more than eight months before Thomas was

Senior citizens must apply soon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Senior citizens and low income families must apply by Aug. 12 for assistance to pay last winter's fuel bills, Director Martin A. Janis of the Commission on Aging said Tuesday.

Eligible applicants include those whose utilities have been disconnected. whose bills are overdue or who request utility prepayment.

Janis said grants of up to $250 are available for assistance with gas, electric, coal, propane, or kerosene bills incurred from Oct. 1, 1976.

Kurfess Charles F. Kurfess. Ohio House Minority Leader

WHO PAYS THE BILL? Remember those record-breaking cold weeks we had last winter? And remember those record-breaking heating bills most of us got as a result? Of course you do. And now, in the heat of the summer, the State Legislature is giving consideration to providing some relief to high heating bills for the low-income elderly in the future. While it is easy to voice support for holding down home heating costs fo senior citizens of low income, the several bills proposed to deal with the subject are rather complex and can be controversial.

First of all, to whom should relief be extended? It seems generally agreed it should be to those citizens over 65 years of age whose modest income qualifies them for the homestead exemption property tax relief, and renters of similar financial circumstances.

Legislatively speaking, it is relatively easy to adjust the fuel bills for those who use energy povided by public utility companies, gas and electric, for these utility operations are directly under the purview or control of state government. But how about those who use fuel oil, coal, or even wood? What is suggested is that they be extended a direct financial grant of approximately the amount of savings proposed for the average recipient of a reduced gas or electric bill, something less than $100 for the winter. It is proposed that the heating bills for those benefitted be reduced up to 25 per cent for the winter months. There is some reasonable suggestion, however, that this reduction should perhaps be provided on only a limited quantity of fuel used, the thought being that if a home owner uses excessive amounts of fuel, they should not receive benefit of the reduced rate on the excess used.

We certainly cannot expect the cost of utility services not to rise somewhat, along with all other costs of living and doing business. So it's obvious that if a utility bill reduction is going to be extended to some consumers, the cost of that fuel has to be made up somewhere else.

The politically easy answer is let the utility companies absorb the cost. They're not very popular anyway. But the fact is that no service or product can be provided for free. The cost has to be recovered somewhere, and in this instance it will be borne by either other utility customers or the taxpayers through the general fund.

Some of us have voiced strong obection to the proposal pressed to a floor vote two weeks ago by the majority party in the House, which would have been funded by a one-time required advance payment of the gross receipts tax paid by the energy-providing utility companies. This would be establishing a program of relief with no provision for funding after the present budget, leading to the suspicion it was intended to serve the political needs of the next election rather than the needs of the elderly in coming winters.

When the issue comes back to the floor again, we certainly hope it will be funded in such a manner as to assure its continuance.

Politics can get involved in these issues. For instance, when the majority party failed to get passed the bill they proposed on the floor of the House two weeks ago through parliamentary ineptness, they found it convenient to blame some members of the minority party and myself as Minority Leader in particular. And some of the media fell for their allegations that the minority party was insensitive to the needs of the low-income elderly, even though a number of us have sponsored legislation seeking to establish similar relief with more effective administration and greater assurance of long-range funding.

Toledo expects private money for revamping

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) - Toledo officials expect private money to pay for 90 per cent of a $500 million dollar revamping of downtown that would transform decaying areas of the business district into treelined boulevards, plazas, green space and new buildings.

The plan was created by the Toledo Development Committee formed three years ago to work on downtown revitalization.

Mayor Harry Kessler has estimated it will cost about $500 million.

With the unveiling of the plan, the TDC asked city council to offer several acres of Maumee River bank property to Owen-Illinois, Inc. for location of a new headquarters building. The glass company is headquartered in Toledo.

Also in the plan is a boulevard that would link the Lucas County Cour-thouse toward the center of downtown with the river several blocks away. Several existing buildings would be razed and a landmark church would be moved to make room for 10 new buildings and changes in the streets and traffic patterns.

TDC committee chairman Paul Block Jr., publisher of the Toledo Blade, says he has assurances from Gov. James A. Rhodes of the state's commitment to build an office building in the renewal area.

One of those losses came Sunday when the White House team bowed 8 to 7 after being challenged by an Indiana team that journeyed here from Indianapolis by chartered bus. The bus ride alone, by some two dozen players, might suggest that the Hoosiers' enthusiasm for softball more than

In another of a long series of amendments, the subcommittee took "matters of professional concern" from a list of things enumerated in the legislation that could be made the subcommittee took could be made the professional matters they claim are rightful management pregnatives.

rightful management prerogatives.
The committee inserted a replacement for the Senate language which says safety forces could strike when their employers refused to accept binding arbitration.

New language provides that when talks involving an employe bargaining unit reach the impasse stage near the end of a contract, employers still could accept binding arbitration, but also could seek a court injunction ordering a 60-day "cooling off" period.

During the 60 days, an envisioned
State Employe Relations Board (SLRB) would provide a mediator to assist in the talks. After 45 days, the mediator would make public the bargaining positions of both sides, hopeful of eliciting public pressure for a settlement.

All else failing after the 60-day period, then a strike could occur. Other subcommittee amendments, which sent the bill to the full House Commerce and Labor Committee for an expected final hearing tonight: -Eliminated the right of supervisory personnel to belong to bargaining units, unless the employer agrees, or unless the SLRB so orders it after an investigation. -More clearly defined the bill's prohibition against court employes joining bargaining units.

-Clarified that an employe or group of employes leaving their jobs because of "abnormally hazardous working conditions" could not be accused of staging an illegal strike.

-Guaranteed the "public sector" a right to be represented on the SLRB. Required ultimate approval of bargaining agreements by state, county and municipal legislative

-Provided that school teacher evaluations and due process rights, contained in another measure recently approved by the legislature, cannot be made the subject of collective bargaining procedures under the terms of the still pending bill.

Allows employers to request the SLRB to order a union representation election when a bargaining organization claims the right to represent an employe unit on the basis of cards signed by employes.

Barn Theatre sets last production

SABINA, Ohio - The Sabina Barn Theatre will open its third and final production of the season with "Fiddler on the Roof", one of the all-time great musicals of American theatre. "Fiddler" will begin on July 22 and continue its run with performances on July 23, 29, 30 and Aug. 5 and 6.
Written by Joseph Stein, and based on the humorous stories of the Yiddish writer Sholom Aleichem, "Fiddler" unfolds a tale about the ferment of change and the crumbling of tradition in the small Russian village of Anatevka at the turn of the century. The musical centers on the down-toearth dairymen Tevye, his no-nonsense wife Golde, and their three elder daughters, all of whom veer out of the family circle and defy tradition by marrying husbands of their own picking.

Jeff Wittman heads the cast of 25 persons as Tevye, and Anne Kanengeiser will be playing his acidulous wife Golde. In their supporting cast are Ellen Turkelson Yente) as the matchmaker whose aid Tevye's three elder daughters seek in their hopes of finding husbands: Lucinda Sigrist, Karen Rouse and Cindi Skunza (Tzeitel, Hodel and Chava) as the daughters, and John Ebner, Tom Downard, Marc Breece and Angus Blackburn (Fyedka, Perchick, Motel and Lazar Wolf) as their suitors.

Randy Adams, managing director, who recently directed the Sabina Barn Theatre's production of "Ah, Theatre's production of "Ah, Wilderness!", will be direction 'Fiddler'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Grafitti on restroom walls is a hallowed school tradition, but principals don't usually pay pupils to do it.

But in Phoenix, Encanto Elementary School principal Anna Maie Murphy has put up a help-wanted sign for restroom decorators

Bennett Conklin, 14, answered the ad and now spends his days perched on a stepladder in the boys' restroom at the school, painting a multicolored mural of Chevy vans, Ford pickups, dune buggies and assorted funky vehicles.

Bennett said the job was a natural since he hopes to become a commercial artist or architect.

'Whenever I'm in school, I always draw in class, even when I'm not supposed to," he said.

He said the school is paying him $20 for the project.

The principal said she hopes the art will discourage vandalism.

Wait 'till '78

I realize it's very hard to count out the Cincinnati Reds this season. They've given this area a lot of satisfaction and thrills the past two years. But, to be realistic, the Los Angeles Dodgers have everything in the National League West just about under control.

How can the Reds, with seven representatives to the All-Star game be 91/2 games in back of a team that sent only three? Pete Rose, Joe Morgan, Ken Griffey, Dave Concepcion, George Foster, Johnny Bench and Tom Seaver all made the trip to New York while everyone but Ron Cey, Steve Garvey and Don Sutton stayed in L.A.

Baseball is an extremely funny game, to paraphrase sportscaster Joe Garagiola. Even the most die-hard Reds fans must be getting enough of the Reds by now. Just when it looks like Cincinnati is going to make an honest charge at the Dodgers, they fall flat once again.

A few short weeks ago, around June 15 to be exact, the Reds decimated their club to get Seaver and lot of small change. Four Reds left the team in the Seaver trade alone and Rawly Eastwick, Mike Caldwell and Gary Nolan all exited the same night.

Still, it seemed too good to be true. Tom Seaver pitching for the power-laden Reds. He should win 30 games a year . . . no wait, he should win every game he starts. But, as Reds fans found out, Tom Terrific is only human and cannot win every game he pitches.

The weekend before the All-Star break, the Reds had their last six games with the Braves and Astros, not world-beaters and certainly not worthy of being World Champion-beaters. But, the Reds managed to lose the first two with Atlanta to move into their familiar spot of 91/2 games back.

But, then, they salvaged the last game in the Atlanta series and beat Houston to immediately cut two games off the Dodger bulge and hope was springing eternal once again in Reds country.

Then along came J. R. Richard, a 6-foot-6 pitcher who seems to have trouble with the rest of the league, beat the Reds for the second time in a row and noname with a funny name, Mark Lemongello, beat them on Sunday for only his second win against 11 losses. Quickly, it was back to 91/2 games out.

The 1977 season is not without precedence. Those who remember (and would like to forget) the disasterous 1971 season when the Reds fell to fourth place after a World Series appearance, will remember that the Reds were 41-51 at the All-Star break, 15 full games in back of San Francisco. Their plight is a little better than that this season.

In the 1973 season when they overtook the Dodgers after a long chase only to drop the playoffs to the Mets, the Reds were 57-42 at the mid-way point, 5½ games out of first. Their plight is a little worse than that this season.

Cincinnati sports a mediocre 48-41 record, nine and one-half games in back of Los Angeles. For the Reds to make up that distance, they will need to play nearly .700 baseball. The Dodgers need to do little better than .500 to hold them

And, what happens to the Reds if they do finish 10 games down? What will happen to a squad that already has Seaver, Paul Moskau, Rick Auerbach, Joe Henderson and Doug Capilla that were nowhere to be seen at Riverfront Stadium at the start of the season?

If the 1971 season is any indication, Bob Howsam will be back at the trading tables. From the 1971 squad, only five players remain on the roster. Pete Rose, Johnny Bench, Bill Plummer, Pedro Borbon and Dave Concepcion are all that are left. Names like Jim Merritt, Wayne Simpson, Lee May, Bernie Carbo and Hal McRae were traded in bunches.

Clay Carroll now pitches for St. Louis; Darrel Chaney chases ground balls in Atlanta; Don Gullet has defected to New York; Lee May, Hal McRae and Bernie Carbo are all in the American League; Tony Perez is learning French in Montreal; Bobby Tolan has gone several separate ways.

And now it's 1977. Perez, Pat Zachry, Doug Flynn, Gary Nolan and Will McEnaney are already gone from the 1976 World Champs. Who will be the next to go? Woodie Fryman didn't wait for his ax to fall; he retired. Rawly Eastwick mouthed off to get away.

Are the harmonious Reds really that harmonious? How is it that a team with a Cy Young pitcher, three league MVP's, the major league leader in home runs and RBI's, several former Rookies of the Year and seven All-Star team members is so far behind with half the season yet to play?

It looks like the only thing for Reds fans to do is wait out the season, cheer for the Dodgers in the World Series and hope for better things in '78.

Morgan starts first inning barrage

Nationals win sixth straight

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - "What took you so long?" Jim Palmer sighed ... and Billy Martin could do nothing more than give Baltimore's ace pitcher a shrug and the hook.

Palmer wasn't out there all that long Tuesday night, but it must have seemed more like a sentence than an honor. It didn't take the National League more than a few flicks of the wrist to turn him and the rest of the American League into losers once again with a 7-5 All-Star game triumph.

According to the box score, Palmer lasted two full innings of the carnage at Yankee Stadium that gave the Nationals their sixth straight victory and 14th in the last 15 of these midseason classics. But officially he made it into the third inning before Martin, the manager of the New York Yankees and the American League stars, trudged to the mound and mercifully removed Palmer.

That was only moments after Steve Garvey of Los Angeles unloaded a mammoth home run into the America League bullpen in left-center field to give the Nationals a 5-0 lead ... which was two innings after Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski bashed a two-run homer to right field to make it 4-0 in the first frame ... which was a minute or two after Dave Parker of Pittsburgh and George Foster of Cincinnati doubled for the inning's second run ... which was two batters after leadoff batter Joe Morgan of Cincinnati started it all with a towering homer into the right field

Needless to say, the rest of the game was almost anticlimactic. Oh, the Americans did make some noises. Richie Zisk of the Chicago White Sox (and a National Leaguer until this Year of the Free Agent) doubled home two runs off Cincinnati's Tom Seaver in the sixth inning, Willie Randolph of the Yanks singled for another run off him in the seventh and George Scott hit a two-run homer in the ninth.

That first-inning outburst, Parker's homer in the third and what turned out to be a game-winning two-run single by San Diego's Dave Winfield off Yankee reliever Sparky Lyle made Don Sutton of Los Angeles a winner of the game and of the game's Most Valuable Player Award.

AL had wrong plan as usual

NEW YORK (AP) — As usual, the American League had the wrong game plan.

"We thought that if we held them close early we'd have a good chance to win," said Boston's Carlton Fisk, the AL's starting catcher in Tuesday night's All-Star Game.

Either Fisk was calling for the wrong pitches or starting pitcher Jim Palmer of Baltimore was throwing the wrong ones. Cincinnati's Joe Morgan, the game's first hitter, lofted Palmer's sixth pitch into Yankee Stadium's right-field seats.

After Steve Garvey of Los Angeles struck out, Pittsburgh's Dave Parker doubled him home and Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski hit a two-run homer. Before they ever came to bat, the American Leaguers were behind 4-0.

"It was a little depressing," said Boston outfielder Fred Lynn, "but we had a lot of good players. We knew we could come back and score some runs."

Not enough, however. Garvey made up for his first-inning strikeout with a booming home run to lead off the third that kayoed Palmer. The AL didn't get started until a tworun double by Chicago's Richie Zisk in the sixth. Willie Randolph of New York singled a run across in the seventh but San Diego's Dave Winfield delivered a two-run single in the NL eighth that proved decisive when Boston's George Scott slammed a two-run homer in he bottom of the ninth.

The 7-5 triumph was the National League's sixth in a row and 14th in the last 15 All-Star Games for a 29-18-1 lead in the series

"Making the All-Star team is a thrill, to put it simply," the Dodgers' ace right-hander said after silencing the AL bats on just one hit and striking out four batters in his three-inning starting stint. "It's something you can't control, being named a member of the All-Star team. I was overjoyed when it happened.

"Then, when Sparky (Anderson, the manager of the world champion Reds and the National League stars) sent word along that I would be the starterand in Yankee Stadium-I almost didn't believe it.

For his part, Palmer was the master of the understatement. "I guess you can say I didn't pitch very well," he observed after the five-run raking, the first time he'd been scored upon following eight shutout innings of threehit All-Star hurling.

Morgan, who started it all with his homer about a halfdozen rows into the right-field seats, seemed to be saying it woulon't have mattered if Cy Young himself had been out there pitching for the Americans

Both he and Luzinski, who punched his homer a little deeper into those stands beyond Reggie Jackson's reach, said Palmer's inability to get the curve ball working was the deciding factor.

Seaver, making his first appearance in New York since being traded to Cincinnati by the New York Mets barely a month ago, received a tumultuous ovation when he was in-troduced, a thunderous greeting far exceeding even those for two of New York's other superheroes, Willie Mays and Joe DiMaggio.

When someone wondered if he was disappointed in the way he pitched in his big comeback appearance, Seaver let loose with one of his familiar cackles and said: "What was wrong with the way I pitched? Nobody got hurt did they?"

hurt, did they?"
No...although Seaver himself nearly became a casualty during his twoinning, four-hit, three-run appearance.

After Minnesota's Rod Carew buzzed a pitch past Seaver's hip for a leadoff single in the sixth, Randolph sent another screamer back to the mound. Seaver managed to knock this down with his glove and wrist. "I couldn't get the first one and the second one darm the first one and the second one darn near killed me," he joked.

Seaver was the only NL pitcher roughed up by the Americans. Sutton, San Francisco's Gary Lavelle, Chicago's Rick Reuschel and Pittsburgh's Rich Gossage each gave up

While Cleveland's Jim Kern and Dennis Eckersley, Dave LaRoche of California and Boston's Bill Campbell all silenced the Nationals, Palmer (five hits and five runs) and Lyle (three hits and two runs) absorbed virtually all the punishment the senior circuit had to

'We've got better players'

No mystery to Morgan

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The National

League's mastery of the American in All-Star competition is no mystery to Joe Morgan.

"We've got the better players," said the second baseman of the Cincinnati Reds. "It's that simple.

Morgan made his point perfectly clear Tuesday night by starting out the 48th All-Star game with a home run off Jim Palmer. The bombarding continued and didn't let up until the Nationals had a 7-5 victory, their sixth straight and 14th in the last 15 games. "The score wasn't that indicative of the closeness of the game," said Morgan. "I mean, one would think that a 7-5 game was close. But, they never really were in the game. An error, a few hits here and there and they finally ended up 7-5. But they were playing catch-up the whole game and never really caught up.

really caught up."
Reflecting a view held by many of the National Leaguers, Morgan underscored the older league's top-to-bottom superiority.
"Our lineup is just awesome," said Morgan. "After me, I look up and down the lineup and say, "There's just no way the American League can beat us."" the American League can beat us.' A quick start helped the National Leaguers Tuesday night. Traditionally, it has been that way as far back as Morgan can remember. Along with Morgan, Greg Luzinski and Steve Garvey were mostly responsible for a 5-0 National League lead after three innings. Luzinski, the Philadelphia Phillies' bull-shouldered outfielder, capped a four-run first inning with a two-run homer and Garvey of Los Angeles hit a solo homer in the third. Both came off Palmer, considered by many to be the American League's best pitcher.

When the Baltimore ace did manage to locate his pitches where he wanted them, Luzinski and Garvey launched them over the fences.

Luzinski's homer was an electric shock to the American League-oriented crowd of 56,683, but an electric charge to the Philadelphia outfielder. It was his first at Yankee Stadium, a historic park he reveres.

"To be in Yankee Stadium, with all you hear about it, is like being in a World Series for me," said Luzinski. 'It was a big thrill to be able to hit a home run in my first time at bat in this

Later, Garvey hit a ferocious shot that left the park in a hurry at the 430- with a Palmer fastball.

foot mark. The Dodger first baseman had expressed an uncomfortable feeling about hitting against American League pitching because of un-familiarity, but quickly got acquainted

TAKES PALMER DOWNTOWN - Joe Morgan ended Jim Palmer's scoreless All-Star string in a hurry last night, leading off with a home run in the first inning to start a four-run inning for the National League. Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski and Los Angeles first baseman Steve Garvey both took Palmer over the Yankee Stadium fence also. The National League ran their streak to six games in a row with a 7-5 win over the American

From New York to Walla Walla

Bouton at other end of spectrum

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Fourteen years ago, Jim Bouton was on the mound in Cleveland, pitching in the All-Star game.

Tuesday night, 2,800 miles from Yankee Stadium and at the other end of the professional baseball spectrum, Bouton was hurling knuckleballs for the Portland Mavericks of the Class A Northwest League, a team with a reputation as enigmatic and unorthodox as Bouton's own. There were 3,904 people in rickety Civic Stadium and the opponents were the Grays Harbor, Wash., Loggers. Most of the players were barely walking when Bouton signed his first pro contract.

What is a 38-year-old man who has written a bestseller, starred in a television series and worked as a sportscaster for two of New York's largest television stations doing drawing a $400 monthly salary and pitching against the likes of Salem, Walla Walla and Bellingham?

"Thirty-eight is just a number," he shrugged after going nine innings and scattering eight hits for a 6-5 victory in his Tuesday night debut.

Bouton created and starred in a television series based on his con-troversial bestseller about baseball 'Ball Four." After the series was canceled following a brief run on CBS last fall, Bouton rejected an offer to return to WCBS as a sportscaster.

The dawn-to-dark schedule of the television show left him drained. didn't see the sun for about a year," he

Besides, he said, sportscasting was not his favorite pastime.

So he left the lucrative job for a return to the summer game that had led to banner seasons with the perennial world champions, the New York Yankees. The career peaked when Bouton had a 21-7 record in 1963.

He finally left baseball, wrote the controversial "Ball Four" and took a job as a sportscaster at WABC in New York. Later, he shifted to WCBS. But he always wanted to return to baseball. He did briefly, in 1975, when he came to Portland and had a 4-1 record in a month's action. To finance his latest comeback try, Bouton said, he's selling his $125,000 house in Englewood, N.J., and purchasing a more modest $75,000 home for his wife and three children.

His vehicle back to the bigtime, he hopes, will be the knuckleball, that mysterious spinless pitch that bobs and weaves to the plate with no onebatter, catcher or pitcher-knowing exactly where it is going.

But his age has foiled his attempts so far. This spring, he was cut by the White Sox Knoxville farm team in the Class AA Southern League to make room for younger players. Then he was dropped by Durango in the Class AAA Mexican League. So he called Bing Russell, the actorwriter from southern California who owns the Mavericks.

Seaver receives thunderous ovation

AP Special Correspondent NEW YORK (AP) — The thundering, three-minute ovation from more than 50,000 throats was music to the ears of Tom Seaver, the prodigal son who came home for just a night.

The sound drowned out the crackling bats of the rival American Leaguers, who almost turned the fairy tale into disaster.

"It was beautiful," said the million-dollar New York Mets discard, basking in the warmth of a 7-5 National League All-Star victory in which his greatest contribution was for the other side. "I really appreciated it. The only thing I could do was to stand there and enjoy Baseball may be the great national pasttime but it writes a lousy script. You don't have to be out of Hollywood to know that the story of the 48th baseball All-Star game could have had a mellower ending for the handsome pitching hero now of the Cincinnati Reds, who is better known as "Tom

TOM SEAVER

In June, he was dealt to the Cincinnati Reds in a deal that rocked the sport's delicate foundations.

The 48th All-Star Game marked his first appearance before a New York audience in the red and white uniform of the world champion Reds.

It was a strange sight. But when the players were introduced individually before the start of the game at Yankee Stadium, the crowd leaped to its feet and roared a salute that lasted a full 150

The salute was repeated when Seaver was called to the mound in the sixth inning to defend a 5-0 National League

Rod Carew, first man up, almost knocked Tom's head off with a shot past the pitcher's mound. Seaver couldn't duck the next one, a burner by Willie Randolph. The ball bounced off his right hand but he recovered to get a sore-fisted out. Fred Lynn walked.

Then Richie Zisk lashed a double, scoring the first two American League

The AL bombardment continued in the seventh, producing another run and Seaver heaved a heavy sigh of relief when Ron Fairly struck out.

Until the American League scored again in the ninth, Seaver had given up the only runs the ALers had salvaged the last three years: three in 1975, one

Top choice to show soon

KENT, Ohio (AP) - The Cleveland Browns' No. 1 draft choice, Robert Jackson, is expected to show up soon at training camp, and his agent, Randy Hendricks, says the rookie is anxious to get started.

Hendricks, reached in Houston, said Tuesday that differences over Jackson's contract have been narrowed. "We might be able to come narrowed. to agreement by rearranging the numbers," he said.

"I really feel that Jackson will be a superstar, so I'm anxious to get him a contract in line with his ability," the agent added.

Bob Lingenfelter, the Browns' seventh round pick, arrived Tuesday night. Lingenfelter also is without a contract but will attend team meetings and observe the field drills until his contract differences are ironed out.

Lingenfelter is a 6-foot-7, 277pound tackle from Nebraska. The Browns plan to test him at offensive tackle. Head Coach Forrest Gregg got in two full practice sessions for the squad Tuesday morning and afternoon, starting early enough to beat a storm that rolled through Kent. Gregg announced a scrimmage for this afternoon.

The 1976 National League Cy Young winner, Randy Jones of San Diego, also tied a record for consecutive innings without a walk, going through 68 with-

Babe Ruth winds up season

By DALE LYNCH

Babe Ruth Commissioner The Lions Club Babe Ruth League is winding down its 1977 season with a pair of events. The minor league is completing its double elimination tournament through the rest of this week and the major league will be participating in a "best of five" All-Star tournament.

MINOR LEAGUE

The minor league has completed its full schedule of regular season games with each team playing eight games. New Holland, coached by Amos Watson, was the league champ with a perfect 8-0 record. Sabina and Willis tied for second with 6-2 marks and Good Hope was fourth at 5-3. Craigs, Girtons and the Medics all tied for last with 1-7 records.

The minor league is now completing in the final round of its double elimination tournament with New Holland out to prove their supremacy. The Medics were eliminated first in two games and Girtons second in three

Sabina has now posted three wins to take the winner's bracket and will wait for the loser's bracket to finish play. On Thursday at 6 p.m., Craigs plays New Holland and the winner will meet Willis at 4 p.m. Friday. The winner will meet Sabina for the championship at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Because the tourney is double eliminaton, the team from the loser's bracket would have to beat Sabina twice for the crown

MAJOR LEAGUE

The major league completed its twelve game schedule last Saturday. Saint's Stingers from Jeffersonville finished in first place with an 11-1 record after losing the first game of the season. They were coached by Jim

The Medics finished second at 9-3, Craig's third at 8-4 and Good Hope fourth at 6-6. Sabina was fifth followed by Willis and Girtons.

Fayette County fans will be able to see the cream of the Babe Ruth crop as two All-Star teams have been chosen from the seven league teams. The four teams from the Washington C.H. area will play against the three teams from outside the area.

The players chosen from the in-town

Willis - John Belles, Walter Ingram, Todd Terrell and Jim Bennett.

Girtons - Larry Brickles, Bill Smith and Ron West.

Craigs - Tom Shields, Pat Dunn, Mike Eddlemon, Steve Sputher, Jim McDonald, Steve Spears and Rick

Medics - Tom Bath, Steve Pritchet, Joe Smith, Mike Penwell, Greg Bentley, Rod Tyree and Bill Pressler. The team is coached by Lenny Bach and John Faris.

The players chosen for the out-oftown team

Good Hope — Mike Jinks, Scott Grooms, Brian Zurface, Walter Hrt, Doug Merritt adn Don Eyre. Sabina — Noel Bear, Andy Olds,

Mark McGraw, Jeff Bigelow, and Jim Curtis. Jeffersonville - Dave Robinson,

Benny Allen, Paul Prater, Tim Hendricks, Gary Conn, Kevin Anderson, John St. Clair and John Ruggles.

The tourney will start at 6 p.m Friday with two games beginning at 4 p.m. Saturday and two more on Sunday beginning at 3 p.m.

A friend, with no regard for money, bought me a starter kit for growing my own peanut plant. It included two raw pea-nuts (unroasted), in a husk herein described as the seeds; a planter, consisting of a tiny plastic cup; a bit of cotton yarn for a bed for the seed; and instructions. The cost was 50 cents, but I understand there are less expensive models. But the gift got me thinking

President has on raising peanuts as a house plant. So I contacted three big seed distributors for their views. The response generally was that growing a peanut house should be rather light and plant would be fun but don't expect many peanuts. One nursery, Gurney Seed of Yankton, S.D., said it had sold peanut seed to 40,000 back yard gardeners last year, that "there has been some increased interest in 1977 to date", and sales might reach 50,000 if the present trend con-

Seed, Greenwood, S.C., said, "I doubt very seriously if you could grow satisfactorily a peanut plant to fruiting stages indoors but it could be grown, of course, as a house plant, particularly for the interest one might have in peanuts at this moment." Jeanette Lowe of Burpee, Doylestown, Pa., said the peanut to be handled as a house plant would have to be grown in a large container about a 10 or 12-inch diameter, deep to about how much influence elec-tion of a peanut farmer as peanut sends to the ground to form the peanuts. She suggested the Spanish variety because it makes a more compact plant than the Jumbo Virginia.

sandy and the plant should be grown on a warm sunny window sill or under plant lights turned on 12 to 18 hours a day.

Bert Carlson of Gurney was even more discouraging. "A peanut plant, to flourish and bear its fruit underground," he said, "would require a container at least 18 inches in diameter and at least eight hours of direct sunshine a day. However, the plant may grow and not develop many peanuts un-der less sunshine."

Park noted that the peanut was "an extremely valuable crop, one which has certainly not been exploited anywhere near its full potential, and that its popularity will continue to increase, not necessarily because of President Carter's interest in this crop, but the fact that it is an excellent source of protein and is very prolific." Grown outdoors, Park reminded, the peanut must have good drainage, a fairly long growing season, moisture during the growing season, but fairly dry during the fall when it is normally harvested. But to get back to the growit-yourself peanut kit, the instructions advise removing the peanuts from the husks gently. leaving the seed coat on, and making a cotton nest for the peanuts to rest in. Then moisten the yarn moderately with tap water; keep the yarn moist but do not let water stand in the container. Germination normally is within 10 days. After the first seed leaves formed their second true leaves, transplant the sprouted peanut, keeping the yarn around it. The moist soil mix should be one-third sand and two-thirds soil. Don't overwater. Move the plant outdoors when the weather is warm. Or you can plant the peanut directly into the soil an inch The peanut plant produces yellow flowers that fade. A shoot develops at the plant base and the peanut grows from this beneath the ground.

The elapsed time from planting to harvest should be about four months, and you could get none to 100 peanuts. Cotton, Egypt's major crop, is specially cultivated and produces one-and-a-half times as much per acre as that grown in the United States, says National Geographic.
